概要	This course aims to improve the students' English communication skills through the introduction and practice of functional language encountered in common social situations. These will include the exchange of personal information, expressions of preference and interest, and giving and receiving advice. Each lesson will be underpinned by a clear grammar focus reinforced by listening, pronunciation practice, pair work, and group English conversation tasks. The course material will be based on the teacher's own handouts, supplied at the end of the previous lesson.
到達目標	1.To equip the student with the skills to effectively communicate in basic English. 2.To apply these English skills appropriately in a variety of common social situations. 3.To practice through extensive role-play and pair work activities. 4.To improve intercultural communication skills.
